Tribal Extension Programs

Welcome!

The Federally Recognized Tribal Extension Program (FRTEP) is the link to bringing and building capacity through 4-H/youth development, Ag and Resource Management, and Entrepreneurship/Business Development to the Indian Country communities across the nation.

Our programs are developed through local needs and objectives, reaching an under-served audience in agriculture, youth and community programs that are often missed with broader Extension efforts and we are often the key to successful programs in Indian Country.

Our educational programs encompass practicable priorities as reflected in the following national critical needs areas:

- 1) Development of sustainable energy
  - 2) Increased global food security
  - 3) Adaptation/mitigation of agriculture and natural resources to global climate change
  - 4) Reduction of childhood and adolescent obesity, and
  - 5) Improved food safety.”
